

Blair Costello

Blair has an unyielding curiosity for all things around her; eyes wide open, absorbing the multitude of relationships in her surroundings. In addition to her nature, the nurture of being brought up in a family of inquisitive builders, performers, explorers and educators has allowed Blair to develop strong spacial awareness and a comprehensive design aesthetic.

Her background is multifaceted to say the least but all her experiences have come together to provide Blair with a keen eye and understanding for design, in addition to a prowess for building and sustaining client relationships. During all her educational and professional experiences, Blair has put her leadership skills and out of the box ideas to good use. She is highly efficient and always looking for new, exciting solutions.

At Design Contact, Blair gets to combine her artistic sensibilities with her flare for project management. She streamlines correspondence and ideas, conducts dynamic research, generates creative presentations and keeps everything flowing from start to finish.
