

John Hughes

John Parker Hughes is a multi-disciplinary designer specializing in the conceptualization, design and presentation of experiential branded environments. John utilizes a strong foundation in consumer product design, architecture and graphic design to develop fully encompassing design programs. His research based approach allows for unique insights into a brand's identity and strategically leverages their core values resulting in highly aesthetic spaces with purposeful and functional planning.

At Design Contact, John is involved with projects from the preliminary sketches, to presentations and the final built work both as a designer and project manager.

The images shown here are a selection of John's work which illustrate his understanding and passion for experiential design and exemplify his skills as a draftsman. From his sketches through to his full 3D Renderings, John's forward-thinking aesthetic and conceptual understanding of branded space is clear.

